Virapress

► WHAT IS VIRAPRESS?

Virapress is a natural nutraceutical supplement (low dose alpha interferon) derived from a bovine extract that includes proteins, albumin, globulin and amino acids.

In the past 30 years, there have been at least 125 published studies detailing the benefits of low-dose alpha interferon, many of which were conducted at major universities in the United States and throughout the world. In the US alone 22 patents have been issued featuring low-dose oral alpha interferon as a therapeutic product.

► HOW DOES VIRAPRESS WORK?

Virapress works by restoring the “communicating proteins” (cytokines) that have been reduced or depleted in the human body due to various reasons such as acute and chronic illnesses as well as unintended consequences of modern lifestyles (i.e., toxicity). The mechanism of healing used by Virapress is to provide the missing cytokines to the body so the immune system can return to stasis, and thus is more able to combat viral and autoimmune attacks as they occur.

► VIRAPRESS AND DENGUE

In the case of Dengue fever, scientific research suggests that second stage Dengue fever shuts down the body’s immune defenses by stopping the production of interferon. Therefore, as the Virapress formula contains interferon and accompanying cytokines, we believe Dengue sufferers are likely to experience a cascading effect of their immune response when taking Virapress and may recover their health within just a few days.

Virapress is available as a sublingual tablet and is marketed primarily to doctors in the fields of integrative, alternative, and naturopathic medicine. It is manufactured by Bio-Stasis International, Inc.
